Across the three finalists the development metric rose while every hold-out measure fell